One man is dead after an early morning shooting in Bay St. Louis, officials said.

"On Sept. 25, at approximately 12:46 a.m., officers of the Bay St. Louis Police Department responded to a residence on the 300 block of Ulman Avenue in response to a shooting," Police Chief Gary Ponthieux said in a press release Tuesday. "Upon arrival, officers located a gunshot victim identified as Raymond John Estapa, 36 years of age, of Bay St. Louis. Estapa was pronounced dead on scene."

"A preliminary investigation indicates that two males who knew each other engaged in a physical altercation which resulted in the shooting."

No arrests have been made, Ponthieux said, and no additional suspects are being sought.

Hancock County Coroner Jim Faulk was on the scene, along with the BSL Police Department and the Hancock County District Attorney's Office.

Anyone with additional information is asked to contact the Bay St. Louis Police Department at 228 467-9222, Ponthieux said. You can contact Crimestoppers at www.mscoastcrimestoppers.com or by telephone at 1-877-787-5898. You can also text CSTIP plus your message to 274637(CRIMES).

The origins of the Old Spanish Trail began at a conference held in Mobile, Alabama in 1915. It was then that automobile owners who eagerly sought roads to drive on began their ballyhoo. They became known as Good Roads enthusiasts and went back to their home states to urge governing authorities to build roads and bridges. Conferences continued to be called annually until a transconti-

Waveland officials and RSVP brainstorm ways to reach out to area senior citizens

The city of Waveland and Hancock County RSVP on Monday hosted an informational meeting for senior citizens' caregivers.

Last week, the city and RSVP hosted a lunch for Waveland's seniors to discuss ways that the city and community organizations can provide help.

Waveland Mayor Mike Smith said Monday that some many seniors are unable to cut their own grass and live on fixed incomes.

Several in attendance mentioned that there are several local resources, but many seniors don't know about them.

There are several resources available at the Hancock County Library System's locations in Bay St. Louis, Waveland, Kiln, Diamondhead, and Pearlinton; the Hancock Resource Center; the Hancock County Food Pantry; the Hancock County Senior Center; and RSVP's offices, to name a few.

RSVP Program Director Linda Pitts asked Smith about sending a postcard to every household in Waveland in order to compile a list of senior citizens or disabled citizens in need.

Officials also discussed compiling a some point the argument escalated.

Aguilar was initially accused of physically assaulting the man, and was charged with misdemeanor simple assault, causing bodily injury, after her landlord filed an affidavit on the matter, Bass said.

No serious injuries were reported, Bass said, but according to a police report posted to Facebook by Aguilar herself, AMR did assist at the scene and the man was transported to an area hospital.

The police report regarding the first incident outlined Mr. Chiasson (the landlord's) accusations.

Aguilar is accused of calling Chiasson names and pushing him into his vehicle, closing the door on his left leg. It also says she threatened to slash his tires.

According to the report, both parties used profanity toward each other; however, Chiasson maintains he did not physically assault Aguilar.

Aguilar told police Chiasson started the altercation after making statements about her family, including her child.

Aguilar says Chiasson, while continuing on with vulgar accusations about her family, quickly shut his car door. She said she then opened Chiasson's driver side car door and it allegedly struck a third party who was trying to break up the altercation.

Video footage from the Public Safety Complex Parking Lot was obtained by police.

An ongoing investigation into both the criminal charges and the personnel matter is underway, according to Bass.

Details on the most recent arrest were not released due to the ongoing investigation.

A Hancock Justice Court date is set for Oct. 16. for the initial incident.

I was tolerating my periodic teeth cleaning when June, in Dr. Mosal’s office, uttered “uh oh.” Not a good sign.

Sure enough, my bottom left molar’s 30-year-old root canal had become reinfected. I recalled with dread the gingival flap surgery five years ago.

Wikipedia defines this as “a procedure in which the gums are separated from the teeth and folded back temporarily to allow a dentist to reach the root of the tooth and the bone.” I recalled it as a painful bloody mess followed by days of aching pain.

A week later, minutes after some tooth poking, periodontist Dr. Reid Lester told me some amazing news. Turns out technology is advancing. Instead of slicing my gums open with a knife, he can now shoot a tiny laser beam around the tooth with an instrument three times thicker than a hair. The laser is tuned to vaporize all the bacteria (they’re about 300 different species or so, delightful!) The gum tissue is unharmed by the laser.

Wow! Just five years have gone by. That’s phenomenal progress.

I got online and watched a You Tube video of the procedure called LANAP, Laser Assisted New Attachment Procedure. Amazing. I was pumped.

The procedure lived up to its billing. Other than the shot (still an ouch!), there was zero pain. It was faster and less expensive. I played tennis the next day and attended my 60th birthday party the next night. It worked like a charm and spurs better bone and tissue regeneration.

Since 80 percent of Americans will require gum surgery at some point, this is great news. Lots of pain will be avoided.

Even if the procedure had failed, my options were still excellent, but more expensive. I could get an implant on top of which Dr. Lester could place a whole new artificial tooth that would be better than the real thing.

As exciting as my dental issues are, this column is to remind readers that we are living in the midst of extraordinary human progress – the greatest progress in the history of humanity. And we’re just getting started.

Fifty years ago, more than half the people over 65 had lost all their teeth. Today, only 15 percent. That’s a huge improvement. No doubt with this new laser procedure tooth loss is going to drop dramatically in the coming decade.

Last month I wrote that global poverty (living on less than $2 a day) had dropped from 40 percent of the world population to 10 percent in just 40 years. We should think about this every day we wake up and go to work. These are very good times. But people don’t comprehend this.

Tripp Segars read the column and texted me. “Read your most recent column. If you haven’t read Factfulness, you will find it interesting.”

So I bought the book Factfulness: Ten Reasons We’re Wrong About the World and Why Things Are Better Than You Think.

Turns out there is a huge disconnect between world

The spotlight is always on you

Whether you want it or not, the spotlight is always on you. It may not be the spotlight or limelight of stage or movie actors and actresses, but it is just as real, or even more real than the fantasy and baubles of Tinseltown. Just how much others keep their eyes on us was brought home to me several days ago when a church member pointed to his newly-replaced hip and told me, “Looking at you do so well in your advanced years, I am moved to believe that my hip surgery will succeed.”

It is always expected that many politicians are noted spotlight/limelight cravers and chasers. Part of their DNA is to remain on high alert, to be constantly on the lookout for any open, live camera, microphone or any half-friendly reporter. Countless movie stars, spectacular athletes, entertainers and other performers fall into the same category of showoff, vainglorious propensities.

Glory hogs in church choirs who thrive on the toxic fuel of jealousy and envy are never at peace unless they are rendering a solo. At such times, they are simply in their glory. It never ceases to amaze preachers, musicians and choir directors how much jealousy and envy lurk beneath the seemingly harmless demeanor of some choir members, especially soloists. Even during the course of remarks toward the end of

by Fr. Jerome Ledoux, SVD

a homegoing Mass for a cousin of mine, we heard a Baptist preacher complain that the devil hangs around choirs to whip their jealousies and envies into a froth.

Jesus tells us repeatedly in Matthew 6 not to give alms, pray, do penance, say or do things to be seen or heard by others, warning that we have already had our reward if we seek the praise of humans. Instead, we should say or do things in secret, so that our heavenly Father who sees in secret will reward us. And what a cheap and transient reward is the admiration and applause of fellow human beings!

Yet, at the same time and in that same context, Jesus tells us in the previous chapter of Matthew that no one lights a candle and puts it under a bushel basket. Rather, people place a lit candle atop some kind of stand in order that it will give light to everyone nearby. Thus, we are being told that there is but a thin line between being a glory hound and letting our little light shine on everyone.

So, our command from Jesus is to walk the tightrope between giving service and praise to God, and giving vainglorious tribute to ourselves, bragging about our puny abilities. And a veritable tightrope it is every day of our lives! We are put on the spot, ordered by the first commandment, as recounted in Deuteronomy 6:6,

“You shall love the Lord, your God, with your whole heart, and with your whole being, and with your whole strength.” In other words, let it all hang out for God!

Equally, we are commanded to remain humble while letting it all hang out for God, giving it all up to God in full-throated words and songs, being joyously alive in talk, in walk, in dance and in shouts of Alleluia through hands held high in praise. Yet, during all this electric activity, we must keep the even mind of a servant, giving all praise and glory to God alone, no matter how inspirational or powerful may be the impact of what we are saying, singing or doing. Rise above the spotlights!

Many opportunities are available daily for us to prove ourselves as worthy servants of God in doing God’s will, in giving thanks, praise and worship to God with all our being and strength, without taking credit for it. Such opportunities we find in our own home by loving our parents, siblings, spouse and children. We find similar opportunities at the workplace, wherever that may be. Give God the glory, no matter how skilled, creative and productive you are in your line of work!

Having checked our ego in the vestibule of the church, we pray a trinitarian doxology at the conclusion of each prayer. Then, just before the Great Amen prior to the Our Father of the Mass, we put ourselves into the background as servants and we extol our awesome Creator through the inspiring doxology, “Through him (Jesus), and with him, and in him, oh God Almighty Father, in the unity of the Holy Spirit, all glory and honor is yours forever and ever! Amen!”

If you are a glory hog, you are full of yourself, and, if you are full of yourself, you are full of baloney. Some people describe it with more colorful language.

“There you go performing again!” I cannot count the times I heard that charge thrown at me as a child. Most of us have a drive – at times mischievous – to perform. Even some shy people like President John F. Kennedy and super athlete Jesse Owens are thus driven. We should ever bear in mind that whatever talent and drive reside in us are God-given and should be used to keep God in the spotlight.

ER Treatment Can Lead To Surprise Medical Bills

Guest Opinion

By Trudy Lieberman
Rural Health News Services

Having good insurance doesn’t always mean that you won’t be caught with a huge surprise medical bill you didn’t expect and won’t know where to turn. But politics and self-interest on the part of insurers and health care providers have gotten in the way of a workable solution.

Such bills result when someone goes to the emergency room and the physicians treating them – primarily ER doctors, anesthesiologists and radiologists – don’t belong to a patient’s insurer’s network of providers. In other words, those providers are out-of-network and can bill what they please. And they do.

What happens is that the patient’s insurer pays the in-network negotiated rate, and soon afterwards the patient receives a surprise bill from an out-of-network doctor for the balance of his or her fee. Sometimes these are large like the $109,000 bill a 44-year-old Texas schoolteacher received for care after a heart attack. His insurance carrier paid nearly $56,000, and the out-of network hospital offered to accept a $782 payment after the teacher’s story appeared as part of a Bill of the Month feature on the Kaiser Health News website. After national publicity, the hospital offered to slash the bill even more – to $332, which the teacher paid.

MS Reports Four New West Nile Virus Human Cases

SEA COAST ECHO

The Mississippi State Department of Health (MSDH) reports four new human cases of West Nile virus (WNV), bringing the state's total to 37 so far for 2018. The reported cases are in Hinds (3) and Madison counties.

So far this year human cases have been reported in Adams (2), Attala, Calhoun (2), Copiah, Forrest (2), Harrison (2), Hinds (15), Itawamba, Jones, Lauderdale, Madison (2), Marion, Oktibbeha, Pearl River, Rankin (2), Walthall and Washington counties. In 2017, Mississippi had 63 WNV cases and two deaths.

MSDH State

Epidemiologist Dr. Paul Byers reminds Mississippians that peak season of WNV continues through the end of the month, and it is important for all Mississippians to take precautions, regardless of reports of human cases in specific counties.

Byers said that while most people with WNV recover without any long-term problems, some develop a more severe infection that can lead to complications and even death — especially those over 50 years of age.

Symptoms of WNV infection are often mild and may include fever, headache, nausea, vomiting, a rash, muscle weak-

But most cases don't receive such publicity, and consumers are at the mercy of inadequate state protections against such practices. In nearly all states, it's patient beware!

Recently David Bordewyk, executive director of the South Dakota Newspaper Association, called me to complain about a CBS This Morning segment, which gave advice for dealing with surprise bills. Bordewyk thought the advice fell way short.

The program's advice suggested patients negotiate with their hospital before writing a check, a tactic that has worked for some people. But as the first line strategy for solving this problem, Bordewyk believed it was not workable. "That advice seemed useless to me and insufficient," he said. "It seemed so lacking; it was frustrating."

CBS reported that 21 states have surprise billing laws, which don't work very well. Still it advised viewers to check the laws in their state, check with their health plan, and always fight back.

Most people who followed that advice would be hard-pressed to find some useful protections against surprise bills. Checking your state's laws is not much of a solution.

Last year The Commonwealth Fund, a philanthropic organization in New York City, studied surprise bills and found that many states "typically rely on market forces to minimize surprise bills." The hope is that if a few doctors are not engaging in the practice, then maybe market competition would prevent others from using it.

Among the 21 states with some kind of regulation, only six — New York, California, Connecticut, Illinois, Maryland, and Florida — have comprehensive statutes, according to the Fund.

In those states, protections apply to consumers who belong to HMOs (health maintenance organizations) and PPOs (preferred provider organizations) and extend protection to emergency room patients as well as those who are hospital inpatients. They also free the patients caught in the middle from paying the extra provider charges and may have a process for resolving disputes.

But in other states with some regulations, protections may be limited. For example, they may apply only if their cases involve emergency room treatment but not hospital inpatient care.

Furthermore, surprise

billing protections apply only to consumers who are in what are called "fully-insured" health plans that are subject to state regulation. Those in self-insured plans, generally through large employers, have no protections.

The answer to this inadequate patchwork of state laws is federal legislation. But according to Chuck Bell, program director for Consumers Union, it's tough to craft a bill acceptable both to insurers who still want to drive hard bargains with doctors and to physicians who want to make as much money as they can.

Insurers are getting pickier in setting up their networks. That means there may be fewer doctors who will accept the fees an insurer is willing to pay and, potentially, more surprise billing.

Michele Kimball, president and CEO of Physicians for Fair

Coverage, a group of doctors who are lobbying for state legislation, calls insurer practices "strong arming" physicians. She says the doctors are "willing to accept a ban on balance billing. They just want to be fairly and adequately reimbursed."

A bipartisan group of six senators has just released a discussion draft with proposals to fix the problem. Whether anything comes of it next year is anyone's guess. Says Bell, "Congress has to find a solution that will be accepted by both providers and insurance companies at the national level where their lobbying power is the strongest. That's tricky from a political point of view."

progress and our perception of world progress. Most people think the world is in far worse shape than it is. Many think world progress is going backward, which could not be more wrong.

Bill Gates said Factfulness was "One of the most important books I've ever read; an indispensable guide to thinking clearly about the world."

The book starts with a quiz of 13 questions about the state of the world: What percentage of people have access to electricity? What percent of women in the world have 10 years of education compared to men?

What is the average life expectancy in the world? Are endangered species increasing or decreasing? And so on. There are three answers to choose from.

Turns out the average score was 33 percent, which means a chimpanzee scores as well on the quiz as the average person. When it comes to understanding the state of the world, our knowledge is no better than a chimpanzee.

Did you know 80 percent of children have been vaccinated against disease? Did you know the average life expectancy in the world is 70? Did you know that worldwide women only have one fewer year (nine) of education than men? Did you know the panda, rhino and tiger are less endangered today than 30 years ago? Did you know 80 percent of the world's population has access to electricity? Did you know deaths from natural disasters have been cut in half from 100 years ago? Did you know the majority of the world population now lives in middle income countries? Did you know that in 100 years, there will be the same number of young people in the world as there are today? Did you know that 85 percent of the world's population lives in developed countries with small families and low childhood death rates? Did you know only nine percent of the world's population live in low income countries? And even in the low income countries, the life expectancy is 62 years, most people have access to improved water, and most children are vaccinated.

Every year in Davos, Switzerland, the richest, most powerful, smartest people in the world gather for a huge symposium on the state of the world. The average score on the test was 50 percent among Davos attendees.

This disconnect is caused by the nature of news. Plane wrecks are news. Safe landings are not. In today's world of instant communication, we are subjected to an unending stream of huge disasters, terrorist attacks and other horror stories.

Then there is the negativity instinct. Perhaps after thousands of years of harsh life, human beings simply have a negativity instinct ingrained in our collective conscience. We expect the worst.

Well I've got news for you. The world is improving more rapidly than ever. In fact, the progress of the last 50 years is almost fantastical. And we are just getting started. That is factfulness.

HERMAN WILLIE JOHNSON JR. ELEANOR GARNER MCCANDLESS

HERMAN WILLIE JOHNSON JR.

Herman Willie Johnson Jr. was born on May 26, 1955, and passed peacefully on Friday, September 21, 2018. His parents Herman Willie Johnson Sr. and Lucille Garcia Johnson precede him in death along with his in-laws John Wesley Smith and Jennie and Ray Addington. He is also survived by a host of cousins, nieces, nephews, and friends-all who loved him dearly.

Herman was born in Bay Saint Louis, MS, and attended St. Clare Elementary School and graduated from St. Stanislaus in 1973. He served on the Water and Sewer board of Hancock County for many years dedicating his life to improving the quality of life for his community. He loved watching the Saints and after working in Houston for years became an avid Astros fan. He loved going to the casino playing his favorite slot machine, Buffalos.

He loved watching Jerry Springer in his man cave, smoking cigars and passing time talking to his family and friends. His passion was for politics and he was already dreaming about the 2020 presidential election. Help make his dream come true and vote Trump 2020! #makeAmericagreatagain Herman was the life of the party and it didn't matter to him if it was a birthday, holiday, or a random Monday night. He always made sure everyone around him was having a good time and was well fed. Herman's most prized possession was his cigar collection and the beneficiary was his favorite son in law, George.

Family and friends are invited to join a celebration of Herman's life on September 26, 2018, at Central Bible Church, 2005 Longfellow Road, Bay St. Louis, MS, 39520, at 2:00 PM. Edmond Fahey Funeral Home in Bay St. Louis, MS is in charge of the arrangements.

(Jerry), five grandchildren; G. Carter Johnson, Jr. (Keri), Virginia Johnson Gleason (Edward), William Fenrick "Fen" McCandless (Gia), Holland McCandless Lamier (Greg), and John Garner McCandless (Ellen), and five great-grandchildren.

Hawks, Pirates & Rocks all fall; Bordelon & May earn honors

BY JOSEPH W. GEX, II
STAFF WRITER

The area only had three teams in action this past Friday and all three squads went down in defeat. The Hancock Hawks fell to Ocean Springs 39-29 at home while Pass Christian was not able to hold the lead against undefeated Sumrall at home and stumbled 21-13. St. Stanislaus traveled north of Jackson and fell to undefeated Madison-Ridgeland Academy 59-14. The Bay High Tigers were idle this past Friday night.

of Ocean Springs as they fell 39-29. Caleb Garcia was 13-for-29 for 170 yards with two touchdowns and two interceptions. Garcia tossed touchdown aeriels to Blake Comeaux and Payton Miller. Comeaux had 18 carries for 88 yards and also added a two-point conversion. Sebastian Faucett had seven carries for 44 yards and a touchdown. Miller led the receivers with four catches for 68 yards. On defense, the Hawks were led by Trenton Ladner with 14 tackles while Colby McGough had an 18-yard pick-six. This week the Hawks hit the road to Jackson County to tangle with the Yellow Jackets of St. Martin. Last week, the Yellow Jackets narrowly fell to Gulfport 35-34. The Pass Christian Pirates (1-4) hosted the undefeated Sumrall Bobcats last Friday. Pass Christian jumped out on Sumrall with a two touchdown. Leading going into the second half behind Austin Scanlan's 33-yard scoring aerial to Damonta May and May's 75-yard interception return, the Pirates simply could not hold off the Bobcats in the second half. Gordon Ward led the rushing attack for Pass Christian with 53 yards and 12 carries. This Friday the Pirates host the Bay High Tigers (1-4) who did not play last week. The Pirates are searching for their first win at home this year and the Tigers (0-5) just need to win. The Rocks (1-4) made the long trek north to take on the undefeated Madison-Ridgeland Academy Patriots of the MAIS (Mississippi Association of Independent Schools). The Patriots remained undefeated after dismantling the Rocks 59-14. The Rocks took an early 7-0 lead on a 43-yard jet sweep by Brandon Bordelon only to see the lead disintegrate on the next possession. The Rocks scored again just before halftime on a 20-yard punishing carry by Delvin Henry who ended the game with 21 rushes for 105 yards. Henry now has yards on the year with 11 touchdowns. On defense, the Rocks were paced by Lee Negrotto and Nate McCormick each with 10 total tackles and a sack. Trace Rhodes added nine tackles. This Friday evening the Rocks travel to Jackson County to open Division 8-4A play against the Vancleave Bulldogs who were idle last week. The Bulldogs (3-2) last played on September 14th and defeated Perry Central 21-7. The Offensive Player of the Week for Week #6 is SSC wide receiver Brandon Bordelon who scored a touchdown on a 43-yard jet sweep. He also added a reception for seven yards in the Rocks' 59-14 loss to Madison-Ridgeland Academy. The Defensive Player of the Week for Week #6 is Pass Christian defensive back Damonta May who tallied two interceptions and returned on 75 yards for a touchdown against Sumrall. May also had a touchdown reception on offense to account for all the scoring for the Pirates in their 21-13 loss to the Bobcats. Kickoff is set for 7pm for all contests. See you at the game!

Football Rocks Reunite - Current Sea Coast Echo sportswriter and former Saint Stanislaus College Rock-a-chaw football letter winner Joseph W. Gex, II, (SSC Class of 1988) and former Saint Stanislaus College Rock-a-chaw football coach Will Windham reunited to talk days gone by following the Ole Miss Rebels/Kent State Golden Flashes football game at Vaught-Hemingway Stadium on the campus of The University of Mississippi on Saturday, September 22nd. Windham was an assistant coach for the Rocks from 2009-10. He helped lead the Rocks to the Class 4A state football championship in 2009 with a 35-16 victory over the Lafayette County Commodores. Windham left SSC after only coaching high school for two years for a graduate assistant position at Mississippi State University under Dan Mullen. Windham stayed at Mississippi State for three seasons before taking a job under James Franklin at Penn State University for the 2014 season. In 2015, Windham was named the defensive line coach at Davidson College in North Carolina for a season. When Kirby Smart took over at The University of Georgia at Athens, Windham joined him as a defensive consultant for two seasons during 2016-17 helping the Bulldogs earn a Southeastern Conference championship and a national runner-up finish in the 2017 season. Following the national championship game, Windham was named the inside linebackers coach at Kent State University under first year head coach Sean Lewis, the nation's youngest FBS head coach. The position is Windham's first on-field coaching position at the Division I level. While Windham is a New Hope, MS, native, he made the trip back to his home state on Kent State's first ever trip to Ole Miss. The Golden Flashes were outlasted by the Rebels 38-17 in the game highlighted by two length lightning delays. Windham stated that he is loving every minute of the challenge of being a Division I coach and the climb he took to get to this level. Windham stated, "The ring we won at SSC in 2009 was my first one. It gave me the hunger to strive for more." Now, there is more pushing Windham for success as he and Whitney welcomed their first child, Tyler, on April 27, 2018.

Research reveals that people are more absorbed and attentive when they read newspaper content.

No matter how The Sea Coast Echo® captures a reader's attention, we are remarkably successful at keeping it. An NRS survey says newspaper readers are more relaxed than TV viewers and radio listeners and less likely to be multi-screening. In fact, the 36 million who pick up a paper spend over an hour reading and don't multi-screen at all. Nothing works like The Echo works.
